

2. Method declaration - The lines that defines the method's identity.

Method body - the block of code inside "{ }" that performs the task.

3. Access modifier. (public or private)

4. Visibility, what can see and use the method

5. Var1 - entire main() method

Var2 - only inside main () loop

Var3 - entire method1() method

Var4 - only inside method() loop

6.

getVowels public static int getVowels(String str)

extractDigit public static int extractDigit(int num)

insertString public static String insertString(String str, int num)

7.

The compiler tells methods apart using the method signature, (their name and parameters)

Yes, they can

8.

To send a value back from a method

One value.

Write the data type your returning like int or string

9. doSomething() is called without using its return value.

11.

T

F

F

F

T

F

F

F

F

T

F

F